Class Structure:

- Classes will be delivered completely online through Zoom which is a free app you can download. Once you have the app downloaded, I will be able to share Zoom meeting links with you through email where you will click to open the session. If you are unfamiliar with Zoom, I am happy to help you figure it out and do a technology test session with you prior to classes starting.
- Classes will be recorded each week through Zoom and available for 1 week after the actual class. This way even if you miss a class or want to do the class a second time you will have your own access to that week's content.
- For music in the class I will use a playlist on Spotify. From experience, I don't find that music comes through great on Zoom; however, if you have your own Spotify account I can share my playlist with you and that has worked really well in my other Zoom classes. I can also share with you playlist details if you want to use another music provider for music in class. To be clear, having your own music at home is not remotely required for class; however, is recommended.
- You are welcome to have people in your household drop in for classes if there is space. Drop-in fee is $5 a person and a waiver is required to be signed by anyone participating in the classes whether through registration or drop-in.
- All registrations for classes are capped at 10 households/class and/or 12 people/class. Numbers for classes are limited to ensure best possible experience for individuals registered.
